Weather

- — Areas of fog and freezing fog remain across parts of NW and central Europe, particularly in the UK and Poland, with a small chance of it lingering through the afternoon in places. Fog is likely to form again this evening in parts of the UK, the Netherlands, Germany, Poland and central Europe. Storm Bruna, a broad area of low pressure centred in the Atlantic, brings rain and thunderstorms to Iberia, particularly Portugal and the west, where strong winds are likely. Areas of rain with ISOL CB (tops FL250-340) move east across the Peninsula at times, with one area currently near Madrid. In the west and along Atlantic coasts, ISOL/CLST CB (tops FL280-380) are a risk, with heavy rain at times. Bands of rain also spread further east and north to affect France and central Europe, reaching SW UK and Ireland overnight.
